What is a CSA?

CSA is short for Community Supported Agriculture. Farmers offer a certain number of shares (AKA memberships or subscriptions) for you to purchase. You receive a “share” of the harvest every week of the farm’s season.

DETAILS
You pick the CSA style that works for you and sign up with the farmer. Each CSA is different, from product type to payment system to commitment level.

FINE PRINT
A traditional CSA model asks you to pay up-front for the season. If the harvest is modest, the share may be sparse. If the season is abundant, your share will reflect that! By participating in a CSA you share risk (and reward) with your farm.

THERE’S MORE
There are many variations on this model; online, customizable, work-based, etc. Contact your farmer to hear about their unique CSA.

A PLACE OF THE HEART FARM

CENTURY HARVEST FARM FOUNDATION
brenna@centuryharvest.org
(316) 641-7117
When you buy a CSA share from us, you are not only signing up to receive weekly boxes of the season’s freshest vegetables, you’re also investing in the future of our Makers in their journey to recovery and rehabilitation. Your veggies will be sown, cultivated, harvested, and cared for by the Makers in our From the Ground Up Program. Every box will feature 6-10 seasonal veggies with the additional option of add-ons like eggs, beef, or more. Plus, 100% of your share proceeds will go back into providing support and workforce development programming.
